ENHANCEMENT ACTIVITY

I was gaming online. Someone in the chat said I was doing badly and needed some cheat codes to help me. I didn't know them, but it seemed like a really good offer!

They sent me a link and I clicked on it. It said the link would only be valid for 15 minutes, so I had to act fast! I entered all my personal details, then the cheat codes were sent through to me on a private link.

Then the person left the chat. None of the codes worked. They were all fake and now they have all my personal details and I don't know what they'll use them for.

I was scrolling social media and saw this cool competition from a brand I'd never heard of before. It said for one day only, I could win a new iPhone and loads of other cool treats and gadgets. What a deal!

All I had to do was like and share, then later that day I got a message saying I'd won! I had to enter some personal details and pay a small amount of money to release the prize.

But the prize never arrived. When I tried to contact the competition organisers they didn't answer. So now I've lost money, my details and I never got a prize.
